From the Principal

The Parent Trap

The Education Editor of our state newspaper has been working overtime this week as issues associated with schooling have been particularly prominent. While it is not unusual to read items by armchair experts about the latest fad or ailment within the education system, it was the article about the different styles of modern parenting that took my attention on Monday.

One particular style was referred to as helicopter parenting and was described as being when “parents discourage a child’s independence by being too involved in every aspect of their life. They hover over them and swoop in at any sign of challenge or discomfort.” While this may be a rather extreme expression of this tendency among some parents, the potentially detrimental effects of such behaviour would be apparent to all. There is a clear danger of stifling children and increasing their fragility at the later times in their lives when they will inevitably have to deal with adversity.

Learning to deal with issues and challenges is a critical component of life in general. Many of the skills necessary to do so are gained by each of us in our formative childhood years. A robust experience of secondary school is often developmental in this regard and prepares young people for the inevitable trials of adulthood. The difficult task for parents is discerning between which experiences are opportunities for growth and which are potentially harmful.

At CBC Fremantle we encourage parents to make contact with the College whenever they feel the need to discuss issues relevant to their son or the policies and practices of the school. Of course, satisfactory outcomes are only ever possible when such issues are addressed in the context of mutual support and understanding. We very much appreciate the trust that is typically shown in our capacity to adequately address any matter of concern.

Our aim at this College is to provide a safe environment within which each student may learn to their potential whilst successfully confronting the inevitable challenges which constitute part of normal human development.

We look to assist parents in the upbringing of well-rounded, resilient young men who are prepared and well-equipped to confront the future challenges of adulthood.

Thank you to all parents who show faith in the College and assist us in this endeavour.

Mr Shaun Kenny
Principal

Food for The Rite Journey

Preparing a family four course meal from shopping to washing-up has been this year's challenge for The Rite Journey Year 9 students.

The Rite Journey programme invites boys to complete a group challenge, and after much discussion the boys chose to learn how to prepare a four course meal for their families.

So far in The Rite Journey classes, the boys have learned how to prepare two pasta dishes – Carbonara and Bolognese — and how to barbecue a variety of meat.

Further to their preparation for the big challenge, the boys met with CBC Old Boy, Nunzio Gumina, at Fremantle's infamous Villa Roma, to learn about setting a table, serving food, dining etiquette and kitchen protocol.

Nunzio has several restaurants, and is legendary for launching Fremantle's cappuccino strip with the original Old Papas.

The boys enjoyed a three course meal and made the most of the opportunity to learn the fine art of dining and serving from a master.

Weekend at Boyagin Rock

Last Saturday and Sunday a group of Years 8 and 9 CBC boys travelled to Boyagin Rock, just out from Brookton. They spent the time mixing with the local Aboriginal people, who told their story and cooked traditional damper and kangaroo stew.

The night was very cold but the boys thoroughly enjoyed the whole experience. They were challenged when they climbed the rock and erected their tents, but the biggest challenge for some was when packing up. Trying to fit a tent and sleeping bag into the bags they came in seemed impossible, but after a number of attempts the gear was packed.

The next camp will be held on the 17/18 of August for Years 10, 11 and 12 students. There are a limited amount of spaces so please see Mr Baldry to register your interest early next term.

Mr Peter Baldry
Indigenous Studies Coordinator
